PREFACE.

The earliest issue of the Official Register (then known as the Register of Officials and Agents) was published in 1816 by the Secretary of State, under authority of a resolution of Congress approved April 27 of that year. The Secretary of State continued to issue the Register biennially until 1861, when, by act of Congress approved March 2, the supervision of its publication was transferred to the Department of the Interior. The Register of 1861 and each succeeding edition up to and including that of 1905 were issued by the Secretary of the Interior. The law governing the publication of the Official Register, which had been amended from time to time, was again revised in 1895 and amended in 1902 and 1904.

In 1906 the duty of publishing the Register was transferred, by act of Congress approved June 7, to the Director of the Census. This issue is the fourth which has been prepared under the act of 1906.

The growth of the Register in size and number of names during each decade since its first publication is shown by the following table:

YEAR.	Number of volumes.	Total pages.	Approximate total names.	Total index (pages).	Cost of publication.	Printer.

The costs stated in the foregoing table refer exclusively to the cost of printing. Prior to the transfer of the duty of publishing the Official Register from the Department of the Interior to the Bureau of the Census, the printing cost was a charge against the congressional appropriation for printing. When the transfer was made this cost became a charge against the appropriation for the Bureau of the Census, but at present it is paid out of the appropriation for the Department of Commerce. In former years a separate appropriation of $50,000 was made by Congress to the Department of the Interior to cover the cost of compiling the Register; in recent years no such appropriation has been made, and this cost has been a charge against the appropriations for the maintenance of the Bureau of the Census.

The adoption of the present form of the Register in 1907 made possible a very great reduction in its bulk, with a corresponding decrease in printing cost. As will be seen by reference to the table, the number of pages decreased from 4,219 in 1905 to 1,504 in 1907, while the cost fell from $70,800 to $25,600. From 1907 to 1911 the number of pages and the cost increased slightly, owing to the normal growth of the Government service.

Heretofore the Register has been published in two volumes. Volume I contained the names of all civilian employees of the Government except those in the Postal Service, together with the names of commissioned officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps. Volume II contained the names of employees in the Postal Service, including the Railway Mail Service, Mail-Messenger Service, and special mail service, and the names of mail contractors. For convenience, the names of the employees of the Post Office Department in Washington were given in both volumes.

The Census Bureau encountered increasing difficulty in the preparation of Volume II of each succeeding issue of the Official Register. This volume in 1911 contained 774 pages, and the cost of printing alone was $12,600. It was necessary to obtain the names of the employees in the Postal Service by correspondence with each postmaster in the United States, and the accuracy of the returns furnished was in many cases very doubtful.

The task of preparing the volume was of such magnitude that a period of more than six months elapsed between the date to which it related and the date of its publication, and so many changes were made in the service during that time that it was of little value when finally issued.

In view of these facts, it was believed by the officials of the Census Bureau and of the Post Office Department that the practical value of Volume II was not sufficient to justify the labor and expense involved in its preparation; and in compliance with recommendations made, the following provision was incorporated in the urgent deficiency act approved October 22, 1913:

Hereafter the Official Register of the United States shall not contain the names of those persons heretofore published in Volume II relating to the postal service, namely, postmasters, assistant postmasters, clerks in post offices, city and rural carriers, employees of the sea-post service, employees of the Railway Mail Service, employees of the mail messenger service, and mail contractors; nor shall it contain the statement of allowances made to contractors for carrying the mails or the list of ships and vessels belonging to the United States, as heretofore published in the said Official Register; and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the foregoing provision are hereby repealed.

This legislation will materially decrease the expense of preparing the Official Register.

The number of postal employees on June 30, 1913, was 290,605, classified as follows:

Post Office Department at Washington		1,444
Postmasters:
First class	454
Second class	1,936
Third class	6,033
Fourth class	49,598
		58,021
Clerks in post offices (including assistant postmasters)		115,415
Watchmen, messengers, laborers, etc., in post offices		1,454
City letter carriers		30,920
Railway Mail Service:
Officials	136
Railway postal clerks	17,547
Substitute railway postal clerks	2,066
		19,749
Mail messengers		7,725
Screen wagon contractors		290
Steamboat contractors		244
Sea post clerks		42
Mail bag repair shops		124
Mail lock shop		40
Star route contractors		12,452
Rural carriers		42,685
Total		290,605

Since the adoption of the present form of the Register, in 1907, the two volumes have been designated, respectively, as "Volume I—Directory," and "Volume II—The Postal Service." In the 1913 edition, although the Register now consists of but one volume, the term Directory is still retained as a subtitle.

The present volume contains several sections. Section 1 is devoted to the legislative branch of the Government, and gives the names of the members of the two Houses of Congress, together with the names and compensation of all officials and employees of Congress, officials and employees of joint congressional commissions and committees, and administrative officers of the Library of Congress and the National Botanic Garden. The remaining sections give the names, official designations, and compensation of persons in other branches of the Government service, as follows: (2) Executive departments and other governmental establishments—all persons occupying administrative and supervisory positions; (3) Judicial—justices, judges, and employees of all courts; (4) Territories and insular possessions—principal officials. Section 5 contains an alphabetical directory of all civilian employees of the United States Government, except those in the Postal Service, together with commissioned officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps. The directory is preceded by a key to the abbreviations used. Section 6 consists of two appendixes: (I) Presenting the pay tables to be employed in computing the pay of officers in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Revenue-Cutter Service; (II) containing a digest of legislation relating to the Official Register.

The information contained in sections 1, 2, 3, and 4 of the present volume is shown, so far as practicable, as of date November 15, 1913.

The names of temporary employees who on July 1, 1913, had been in the service less than six months are not included.

The total number of names in this volume is 153,265; the number of names in the Register for 1911 was 151,712.

There is given in this edition of the Register, for the first time, a table showing the total number of officers and employees in each of the Executive departments and independent offices, classified only by bureaus, services, or divisions, no distinction being made between employees in the District of Columbia and those in the field or between officials, clerks, and subclerical employees. The figures shown in this table are in some cases necessarily only approximations, by reason of the fact that a number of the departments have large lump-sum appropriations and the force paid from such appropriations is continually changing. The compilation of strictly accurate statements of the number of employees in such departments on a given date would involve much more labor than their importance would justify.

The act of Congress approved March 3, 1893, provides that—

Hereafter the Official Register of the United States shall contain a statement which will show, by departments or offices, the number of officers and employees in the several executive departments, the Department of Labor, the Government Printing Office, and the offices of the government of the District of Columbia appointed from each State and Territory and the District of Columbia, and the aggregate amount of their salaries or compensation.

This provision of the law calls for a complete and elaborate tabulation of all persons in the civil service of the United States, and is incompatible with the requirement of the act of January 12, 1895, that the volume shall be published on December 1. Since the passage of this act there appears to have been no attempt to comply in full with its provisions by the preparation of the statement applying to all the employees in the Government service. It has, however, been customary to offer a partial substitute in the form of a statement giving the information required, but confined to persons employed in the District of Columbia. Such a statement is included in the present volume.

The preparation of this table presents various difficulties. Certain officials, particularly those serving on special commissions—some of them without pay—are only loosely connected with any of the executive departments. Their inclusion, however, is necessary. The greatest difficulty occurs in the computation of the aggregate compensation, by reason of the fact that the compensation of a considerable number of employees is on a per diem or other basis than an annual salary. For calculating the compensation of such persons, the following rules were adopted: (a) All per diem salaries were reduced to equivalent annual salaries by multiplying the rates specified by 313, the number of working days in the year; (b) in the case of pieceworkers, of whom there are many in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and in the Government Printing Office, the annual equivalent was computed from the average daily wage reported. No computation could be made in a few cases in which officials received fees or commissions in lieu of salary or in other cases in which officials received a per diem allowance when actually employed. Because of these difficulties in calculating the aggregate compensation, and because there are included the salaries not only of clerical and subclerical employees, but of the President, the heads of departments, and other officials, the figures given in the table can not be used for the computation of average salaries.

Compliance with the above-quoted requirement of law, that the legal residence of employees of the Government of the District of Columbia be shown, is impossible, for the reason that all of the employees of the District government have always been reported as appointed from the District of Columbia. These employees have, therefore, been classified by State of birth instead of by State from which appointed.

The compensation of officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps on regular detail for service in the District of Columbia is not included in the table giving the number and aggregate compensation of employees in the District of Columbia, for the reason that many of the officers report only "pay of rank" (which can not be computed from the pay tables unless the length of service is known), while others report their total compensation, including allowances. In the directory portion of the volume the compensation of officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps is given as "pay of rank" unless specific information as to pay has been furnished.

The returns made to the Bureau of the Census are in some cases, particularly with reference to field employees, so indefinite as seriously to impair their value. In other cases the names of certain of the field employees are omitted by reason of the fact that they are engaged upon work of such minor importance, and are employed to so slight an extent, that their inclusion is not deemed desirable. For example, the names of about 4,600 such persons, out of a total of approximately 6,000 field employees, were excluded from the returns for the Reclamation Service of the Department of the Interior.

The obligation resting on the executive departments and other branches of the Government service to furnish the Director of the Census the information required by law imposes in some cases a work of considerable magnitude. This statement applies particularly to those departments which have a large number of outlying services, especially in foreign countries and in the dependencies of the United States. It is almost impossible to obtain all the information required from each of the employees in these outlying services in time to permit the publication of the Official Register upon the date fixed by law. For example, in 1911 it was necessary to omit about 2,000 names of persons employed in the naval stations at Cavite and Olongapo, P. I., in the Indian Service in the field, and in the Internal-Revenue Service. The bureau has succeeded in obtaining complete returns for the present volume, but the last of these returns were not received until November 18.

In view of these and various other difficulties, and especially in view of the fact that the Register is necessarily at least five months out of date as soon as it is issued, in my annual report I have recommended the adoption of the following plan, which modifies slightly the plan proposed by my predecessor:

(1) The establishment of a card directory, prepared and maintained by the Civil Service Commission from information furnished by the executive departments and independent offices, showing the name and status of every person in the Government service except the officers and enlisted men of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Revenue-Cutter Service. Lists of officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps are already published annually in the Army Register and Navy Register, issued by the War and Navy Departments, respectively.

(2) The elimination from the Official Register of detailed lists of all employees, by name.

(3) The publication annually by the Bureau of the Census of an Official Register containing—

(a) A list of all employees of the Government, except officers and enlisted men in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Revenue-Cutter Service, whose duties are of an executive, supervisory, technical, or professional character, and whose compensation is $2,000 or more per annum.

(b) Statistics relating to the Government service, to be prepared from the Civil Service Commission's card directory.

This plan, if adopted, will result in very material saving to the Government, will preserve all the valuable features of the present Official Register, and will provide for a complete and up-to-date record of the entire personnel of the Government in one central office (the Civil Service Commission), from which the Census Bureau will be able to prepare accurate statistical statements when called upon to do so by the President or by Congress.

A bill substantially embodying the foregoing plan (except that $1,500 instead of $2,000 was fixed as the lowest compensation of employees whose names should be included in the Official Register) was introduced in the House of Representatives on August 8, 1913, by Hon. W. C. Houston, of Tennessee.

Wm. J. Harris
Director of the Census.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS,
Washington, December 1, 1913.

NUMBER OF PERSONS IN THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH OF THE GOVERNMENT SERVICE.

The following table shows the total number of persons in the executive branch of the Government service, exclusive of the Army and Navy, both in and outside of the District of Columbia, classified by departments and independent offices, on July 1, 1913. Figures for the Library of Congress are also shown.

It is impracticable to present the figures for the several departments and offices in a uniform manner. They are shown, as a rule, in the form in which they were furnished to the Census Bureau.

These figures are in some cases only approximations, owing to the fact that certain of the departments and offices have lump-sum appropriations and the force paid from such appropriations is continually varying in size, so that the furnishing of absolutely accurate statements as to the number of persons in the service at any particular date would involve more labor on the part of the departments than the importance of the statistics would justify.

The difference between the total number of employees shown in this table and the total number of names contained in the Register (see preface, p. 8) is due to the inclusion in the table of 289,161 employees in the Postal Service, although the names of such employees are not shown in the Register; to the inclusion of the names of commissioned officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps in the Register, while the numbers of such officers are not given in the table; and to the fact that, as already stated, the figures shown in the table are in some cases necessarily only approximations:

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

[The Smithsonian Institution, for the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men, was founded by James Smithson, an Englishman, who bequeathed his fortune to the United States for this purpose. It was established by act of Congress approved August 10, 1846, and its fund has been increased by other subsequent bequests and gifts. Its statutory members are the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice of the United States, and the heads of the executive departments. The business is conducted by a board of regents, who serve without compensation. The names of employees whose salaries are paid from the Smithsonian endowment fund are not included in the Official Register.]
